Goldwater Says

 is "soft on communism" and said the American people do not want socialism or a one-party system which could lead to dictatorship.

"The primary consideration of Americans is what kind of a country we are going to have tomorrow, a year from now and five years from now."

Goldwater has made it clear he has no intention of softening his views on such matters as civil rights, although differences on this issue have caused Sen.
 Clifford P. Case and other New Jersey GOP leaders to divorce themselves from his campaign.

The Arizona senator told the annual conference of United Press International editors and publishers Tuesday he had been advised that he was "committing political suicide" when he voted against the civil rights bill because he felt the employment and public accommodations sections were unconstitutional.

"I suggest that the issue here is whether the people of this nation, white and Negro alike, want a man as president who will approach civil rights on the basis of his own conscience or whether we will continue to see civil rights treated as a brutal weapon of political power," he said.

Mrs. Faubus on Campaign Trail

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP)— Mrs. Orval E. Faubus met with about 600 Conway County residents in the courthouse here Tuesday night as she continued campaigning for her husband's bid for a sixth term.

With her was Mrs. Charlotte Gardner of Russellville, chairman of the women's division of the Faubus campaign.

Mrs. Faubus made a brief talk and shook hands with dozens of persons. She was introduced by Lt. Gov. Nathan Gor-

Mothers in Protest of Intergration

NEW YORK (AP)—Police today arrested dozens of defiant white mothers backing a school sit-in protest against an integration program which transferred their children away from the neighborhood school.

The arrests sparked a near-riot among scores of demonstrators and on-lookers outside Public School 149 in the Jackson Heights section of Queens.

Police headquarters reported the arrests of 65 adults on charges of loitering in or near a school, a form of disorderly conduct. One man was charged with felonious assault on a policeman.

The adults, along with 80 children, were taken in buses and patrol wagons to court.

About 100 demonstrators marched outside the school when the mothers, some pushing baby carriages, arrived for the third day of their sit-in at the school. In addition to the 65 first and second graders directly involved in the protest, the mothers were accompanied by several younger children.

Says Barry's

 Carolina reception — marred only by some booing by a small knot of Goldwater supporters at Raleigh-Durham Airport —
 Johnson Tuesday night addressed a long section on freedom and strength.

Speaking about "men of little faith and voices of doom" who "say we have lost our freedoms," Johnson shouted: "I haven't lost my freedom — not a bit of it."

Goldwater has been arguing that freedom is being eroded,
 "a little bit here, a little bit there."

Johnson said: "There is more freedom in all the countries of the world tonight than there has been at any time in your lifetime."

The President, at another point, said: "Men of little faith, reckless people, dangerous people would try to make you believe that America... no longer leads the world."

Saying that he spoke as commander in chief, Johnson said he could report "that America is the strongest nation in the world and stronger than all the rest put together."

In his Des Moines text, Johnson quoted "the opposition" as once having called for "prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program" — a phrase from Goldwater's 1960 book "The Conscience of a Conservative."

Saying "an attempt was made to soften these words" at the National Plowing Contest in North Dakota, Johnson went on:
 "I guess they think disaster is better if it comes by degrees — or in small doses. Disaster is exactly what their position would bring to our farmers."

Bennett in Okay to Vote Booths

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Atty.
 Gen. Bruce Bennett ruled today that cardboard voting booths made by a Little Rock company "substantially comply" with an 1891 law which specifies the use of wood in such booths.

B. Roy Smith, chairman of the Saline County Board of Election Commissioners, asked Bennett whether the cardboard booths could be used in state elections.

Bennett said they could be used because they meet the intent of the law, which is "to enable each voter to enter and prepare his ballot free from interference."

Bennett said the obvious intent of the legislature was to protect the voter's right to cast his ballot in secrecy.

Bennett said the voting booths must be kept at least five feet apart in order to fully comply with the law.

The Arkansas Election Research Council, which is pushing for election reforms in various areas, has recommended use of the comparatively inexpensive cardboard booths.

They had been warned they would be arrested if the protest was resumed today, but they came anyway.

The Police Department had assigned 50 patrolmen and 15 police women to the school.

The school was predominantly white until it was paired this year with a nearby almost all-Negro elementary school in an experimental program to balance racial enrollments.

The program involves eight schools altogether and includes busing children between the schools of each paired set. This was at the heart of a two-day white boycott of public schools here last month.

"DEAR ABBY"

GRI NANT BEAR HIM!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: My husband is a very "clean" person so maybe I shouldn't complain, but every time he comes in from the yard, he washes his hands in the kitchen sink and ties them on my dish towel! I have complained in vain so many times that I have just stopped mentioning it. After he's dried his hands on the dish towel I throw it in the laundry and put out a fresh one. Last night he pulled a stunt that beat everything. Our little dog came to the back door with muddy feet, so my husband picked her up, stood her in the kitchen sink and washed her feet off! What do you do with a guy like that?

M. O.
Dear M.O.: Just love him! He sounds like a honey. What's a few more dish towels in the wash, and the small task of informative report on Health. Mrs. Chester May won the door prize and refreshments were served. The November meeting will be with Mrs. Lester Kent.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. McPherson went to Little Rock this past weekend to see the Jack Gray family.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDowell have returned from Denver, Colorado, where they visited Mrs. McDowell's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gwinup and also visited points of interest.

Births

Capt. and Mrs. William D. Thomason, Augsburg, Germany, announce the arrival of their first child on October 4. The 8½ lb. boy has been named Karl Andrew. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Thomason of Hope.

In the interest of keeping the peace?

Dear Abby: What is your opinion of a mother who would invite the neighborhood children to a birthday party for her little boy, place a big, beautiful birthday cake in the center of the table, and then serve eight wide-eyed drooling children cupcakes? When one of the children asked why they didn't get any of the birthday cake, the mother said, "We are saving it for a family birthday party tonight."

HEARD ABOUT IT
Dear Abby: Poor woman! She didn't have sense enough to know that the birthday cake could not have been enjoyed nearly as much by the "family" as by those children.

Dear Abby: We are identical twins and we can sympathize with the twins who wrote to say how much they disliked being called "twin" or "Twinny." Also, we agree, it is tiresome to have people look right at two people who look like two peas in a pod, dressed exactly alike, and then ask, "Are you twins?" My sister and I thought up a good answer. When someone asks, "Are you twins?" we reply, "No, we are triplets, but only two-thirds of us are here."

Mrs. LBJ Is Drawing Good in the South

By FRANCES LEWINE

ABOARD THE LADY BIRD SPECIAL (AP) — Even at 7 a.m. Southern crowds turn out for Lady Bird Johnson.

Waving and cheering, they were there today at the famous tobacco auction center of Durham, N.C., as the Lady Bird Special started its second day's journey south. The President's wife said she was flattered so stupid question, that I replied: "No, You see, I have two husbands."

VIRGINIA
Dear Abby: Do you think a girl who has made just one mistake in her life should be married in white?

THE GIRL
Dear Girl: No. Don't make two.

many got up so early to greet her.

That went for the Goldwater fans, too, for some of them were there in the chilly sunny morning to root for Johnson's opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater. They mustered a few boos, too.

As it goes with campaign crowds, it's sometimes hard to figure just how many there were. Lady Bird informed her welcomers, including many college students and Negroes, they were 12,000 strong.

By the time the First Lady's train departed, the master of ceremonies on the rear platform, Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, said the word came from the Durham police chief that the crowd was 12,500.

Education was high on Mrs. Johnson's whistle stop pitch today with a visit to the campus of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Young people in schools and colleges "are a singled out generation — the one that is expected to build a society of the highest order," said the First Lady.

No Decision on Moving the Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Decision postponed because of indecision. A new decision is due Oct. 16 — maybe.

That about sums up what happened after 18 of the Cleveland Indians' 22 directors huddled for four hours Tuesday at Municipal Stadium to decide whether or not the American League Club will stay here for the 1965 season.

General Manager Gabe Paul said directors will meet again Oct. 16 "for further study, investigation and consideration." City Hall expressed disappointment over the postponement. Council President James V. Stanton said directors were using "regrettable judgment" in the delay. Mayor Ralph S. Locher, who headed a Keep-The-Indians-Here drive, said he was disappointed because "Indians" fans would like to know and we are entitled to know.

The Indians' franchise is being wooed by Seattle, Atlanta,

Masonic Lodge Tax Is Discussed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office advised the Pike County tax assessor today to make his own determination whether property owned by a Masonic Lodge is exempt from taxes.

Ed Howard, Pike County assessor, asked specifically about a new Masonic Lodge building at Murfreesboro.

Russell J. Woods, assistant attorney general, said the assessor should decide whether Masonic property come under provisions of the law exempting property used exclusively for public or charitable purposes.

Oakland and about eight other cities, which have not been named.

It is believed the postponement will give civic groups a chance to continue their campaign to sell 4,500 advance season tickets for next year. Paul said the Oct. 16 date is "definitely not a deadline" to reach the ticket goal, which would amount to an advance sale of about $900,000.

Paul estimated the Indians lost a total of $2.2 million in 1963 and 1964.

Finds Better to Give Than to Receive

NEW YORK (AP) — They say it's better to give than to receive. A look at the latest National Football League statistics released today, would seem to confirm that old axiom.

Every time Johnny Unitas gets that football, he can't wait to give it away — usually through the air to some Baltimore Colt teammate. The habit keeps Unitas on top of the NFL passers and it hasn't hurt the Colts' climb to the top of the league's Western Division.

Johnny Morris and Mike Ditka of Chicago and Frank Clarke of Dallas, on the other hand, love to receive. They're constantly on the catching end of aerials and are the top three pass receivers in the league so far this season. But their teams, plagued by other problems, can't seem to get started. The Bears occupy the Western Division cellar and the Cowboys are only a notch above the Eastern basement.

No TV Date Set
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller's campaign office said here Tuesday that the Republican candidate for governor has no definite date established for a television program to outline his campaign proposals.

Rockefeller said in northeast Arkansas Monday that the program would be Oct. 16.

69 attempts and 10 touchdowns in just four games, is off to a blazing start.

Morris has caught 27 passes for 360 yards and four TDs. Ditka and Clarke each have caught 24, with the Chicago end gaining 284 yards and scoring one TD and the Dallas star picking up 319 yards and scoring twice.

Olympics Not All Sweat and Strain

Olympic Culture
By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer
TOKYO (AP) — The Olympics are not all sweat and strain. They have been bitten by the culture bit too.

Until the flame finally goes out on Oct. 24, athletes, officials and fans here for the Olympics will be exposed to large doses of some of the quainter aspects of Japanese life.

A tea ceremony is being performed at almost every open flame in town, and Kabuki and Noh actors are working more hours than an Alsatian sheep dog. Some Sumo wrestlers have grunted themselves down to 350 pounds or so.

All these extra performances are being staged for the Olympic visitors, but since there is no particularly good reason why you should escape the culture blitz, the following guide has been prepared for the stay-at-homes.

Preferably it should be read after eating raw fish and rice and while sitting in a chair that is just a little too small for comfort.

All set? Then let's go:

Tea ceremony — This is a method of making tea for people who would rather have coffee.

You start off by taking off your shoes and sitting around on the floor while a girl in kimono makes mysterious motions amid the crockery.

Each motion has a meaning. For example, if the girl suddenly slaps her thigh it means she has forgotten the lemon. Or the sugar. Or something.

Some of the meanings have been lost in antiquity.

After about two hours, a lukewarm pale green beverage is produced and passed around. It tastes awful.

Noh play — the ancient court drama, performed to music played on one violin string with a hand saw.

There is very little action. Nobody says much, but at the same time, nobody moves much, either. The actors wear masks most of the time. Sometimes they don't. It is hard to tell.

Kabuki — This is the same as Noh except the costumes are fancier. The girl parts are played by boys. The boy parts are also played by boys. This takes a lot of the interest out of the thing.

Kabuki actors talk more than Noh actors, but they don't move much, either. About every half hour, one will change position. The audience usually cheers.

Now, don't you wish you were over here with us?

Not Federal Crime to Kill a President

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the ironies in America's sense of values is this: while it's a federal crime to threaten the life of a president it is not a federal crime to kill him.

For this reason Lee Harvey Oswald did not commit a federal offense when he assassinated President John F. Kennedy and, because he didn't, it was the Dallas police who arrested him for violating the Texas state law against murder.

So federal authorities had no jurisdiction over the case and hence no authority to investigate, to bring charges, or to prosecute the assassin in federal court.

Yet, it would have been a federal crime if Oswald had killed one of the Secret Service agents with Kennedy. Under existing law, in addition to Secret Service men, it is a federal crime to kill U.S. judges, district attorneys and their assistants, U.S. marshals, FBI agents, postal inspectors, prison guards, game wardens, narcotics agents.

In dealing with some of the major problems of the presidency Congress has exhibited such a strange reluctance that it comes under the head of inexcusable tardiness.

In all its history, for example, Congress has never passed a law to provide for a problem which has arisen before and could cause a monumental crisis in government.

This is the problem of presidential disability — how a disabled president passes on his duties to the vice president when he can't perform them and how he takes them back when he is able or thinks he is although others disagree.

Ever since President Dwight D. Eisenhower had a heart attack in 1955 Congress has tormented itself — more or less — with this dilemma but once again it had done nothing when it quit last Saturday.

Likewise it went home without making it a federal crime to kill a president even though the whole world saw how the Dallas police botched the handling of Oswald who was assassinated by Jack Ruby while in their custody.

Immediately after Kennedy's slaying in 1963 it seemed — for a while — that Congress would make it a federal crime to kill, or try to kill, or to conspire to kill a president and others in line to succeed him.

But this evaporated. When the seven-man commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren finished its investigation of Kennedy's killing and issued its report on Sept. 28 it strongly recommended making it a federal offense to assassinate a president.

But Congress was in a rush to quit, which it did five days later. The subject is bound to come up again next year but there's no reason to think Congress will do any more than it has in the past.

It seems odd that Congress has delayed taking this final step since it is now 47 years since the legislators first made it a federal crime to threaten a president.

This becomes doubly odd when it is remembered that in 1955 and 1962 Congress passed additional legislation making it a federal crime to threaten harm to a vice president, a president-elect or other officers in the line of succession to the presidency.

The Warren Commission said presidents have always received threatening letters and the volume became so big by 1940 that the Secret Service set up a protective research section.

It's job was to analyze and make available to those charged with protecting the president — meaning the Secret Service, above all — information from the White House mail and other sources on people considered capable of violence to the president.

Thousands of threatening, obscene, abusive and other communications having a security interest reach the White House every year.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC introduced its new economy-size comedy package Monday night. "90 Bristol Court" is the overall title for 90 minutes of television which is really three separate situation comedies. It concerns people who live in what looks like a plush, expensive California garden apartment, complete with swimming pool.

One character who pops up in all is a janitor who acts like a one-man Greek chorus, speaking directly to the audience. First program of the trio was "Karen," who in the person of young Debbie Watson is a pretty teen-ager. It got off to a rather sluggish start with something about a blind date followed by prolonged confusion about identities.

"Harris against the World," the second segment, stars that excellent actor Jack Klugman. The first episode got off on a wobbly foot with an exaggerated story about an incredibly stupid secretary and a lost report which produced a lot of anguished forehead slapping but not very much humor. If Klugman is given some decent material he could pull this one up to a rather bright half hour.

Finally there was the broadly slapstick "Tom, Dick and Mary," about a pair of new-laws who take in a friend as a boarder to help with the rent. The two men are interns — and what goes on in their hospital, including a pillow fight and a patient running around the corridors in his nightshirt, may give Casey, Kildare and the American Medical Association the jimjams.

The principals however, are young and attractive and maybe it will grow better with age. "The Andy Williams Show" also arrived on NBC as a weekly program Monday night, happily with the same style, easy manner and good taste that made it a standout last season when it turned up once a month.

William Henry Harrison gave the longest inaugural address of any of the U. S. presidents.

India College Men Can't Find Work

By DAN COGGIN

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The lean young man perched nervously on the edge of his chair while the placement officer at Delhi University looked over his job qualifications:

Name, Balwan Singh Gahla-wat, age 22, religion Hindu, honor graduate last April with bachelor of arts degree in mathematics, outstanding athlete in track and field, nice personality, good looks and able to work well with others.

He is pounding the pavement with at least 100,000 other college graduates in India unable to find jobs. The country is herding young people through college on a crash basis, but the economy isn't growing fast enough to absorb them.

Balwan wants a job with a future, perhaps as an industrial management trainee or something similar to realize benefits from a college education that cost about $1,200 and almost sent his middle-class parents to the wall.

This he told the man behind the desk, as he had over and over during six months of futile search since his graduation.

"I'm sorry but we don't have an opening like this at present," said the placement worker. "Maybe you would be interested in something less—"

"I don't want to be a clerk," Balwan interrupted. "I will continue looking for something better as long as I can."

He would not be able to go on job hunting much longer, though. His parents in the Punjab had written him to find some kind of work without delay; they couldn't afford to

Two Chambers Oppose Gambling

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — The Benton-Bauxite Chamber of Commerce, which had voted to oppose the amendment to legalize gambling in Garland County, decided last week to take a neutral position on the proposal. The decision not to take a stand on Amendment 55 came after a meeting with a Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce delegation, which asked the Benton-Bauxite chamber directors to reconsider their opposition.

continue financing him.

The dilemma of time and money running out and few decent jobs to be had means that unless Balwan's six months of bad luck suddenly turns good he will become a clerk, shuffling papers into oblivion in the morass of red tape that marks Indian administration.

More than half of India's liberal arts graduates, unable to find use for their degrees in such fields as history, philosophy, economics and political science in this underdeveloped country, have to turn to clerical work to eat.

Though office work offers a white collar and security, it generally is a dead end. Pay is usually about $10 a week, fair in India where average per capita income is only $66 a year.

University and college enrollment has grown in the last decade from 400,000 to more than a million, and about half the students are in liberal arts fields.

The Indian government, painfully aware of how many college graduates are among its 15 million unemployed, is trying to channel more students into science and engineering and other needed specialties. But educational facilities in these fields are limited, and no real solution to the problem is in sight.

Steel Plants Running Out of Workers

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

CHICAGO (AP) — The steel industry, headed for its biggest year in history, is running out of workers in the Chicago-Gary, Ind., area, largest steel producing center in the world.

Two of the industry's giants, U.S. Steel and Inland Steel, reported today they are carrying recruiting drives for their busy Chicago area plants into the far corners of the Midwest and Pennsylvania in an effort to beef up overworked crews.

The problem, say industry spokesmen, is the lack of skilled labor in Chicago, traditionally a fertile source for the steel plants.

"We've advertised here and tried to work with employment services," said a Chicago spokesman for U.S. Steel, "but we are just unable to meet our requirements locally. We're having trouble getting skilled and even semiskilled workers."

The spokesman said U.S. Steel will conduct job interviews this week in many industrial areas of Pennsylvania, including Altoona, Johnstown and Uniontown.

The Chicago area produces nearly 23 per cent of the nation's steel and industry officials estimate the nation will produce a record 125 million tons of ingot in 1964. Last month's production of 10.6 million tons of ingot set a new industry record for September.

"There's a big push on," said Phil Morris, personnel director for Inland Steel's vast Calumet Works. "When you get large steel companies looking for the same thing (skilled labor), there aren't enough top-flight people to go around."

Because flameless electric water heaters need no special flue or vent, you can install them where you want them.

In Chicago, Morris said "we're looking for people with high school educations or at least the equivalent. You just can't find them there."

"You hire a man as a laborer, but you want him to move up," Morris said. "The days of the pick and shovel are over in the steel mills."

As of this week, Morris said, there were 486 jobs open among his work force of 21,200. "And if I filled those I'd have to ask for some more."

Morris said Inland is recruiting workers in Duluth, Minn.; Green Bay, Wis.; South Bend, Ind.; Evansville and Terre Haute, Ind.; and Escanaba, Mich., among other cities.

Smaller steel producers in the Chicago-Gary area also are pressed, but haven't announced any plans for recruiting outside the immediate area. There are nine major steel-producing facilities in the area.

The Story: The associates of Hugo Sandor discuss what steps to take following Sandor's kidnapping. In the group are Mrs. Sandor Dick Craig, his chief producer, a brother, Bud, and two other executives, Allen Landall and Sam Fergus.

IX

Landall spoke up. "We certainly aren't able to investigate on our own. The local police haven't the manpower or the know-how. They'd call in the FBI if we didn't—they'd have to. If the FBI moved in, the snatches would know it right away. They couldn't help knowing it."

"Why?" Craig asked.

"The FBI sends in a small army of agents. In a big city they wouldn't be noticed, they'd absorb themselves in the scene, in a small beach town like this, where everything's out in the open, they'd stick out like so many sore thumbs—particularly now, between tourist seasons. Not only that, they'd bring in a carload of equipment. They'd scare off those snatches so far we'd never see Hugo again."

Craig said quietly, "more interested in these emphatic reactions than in winning a point in kidnapping cases."

"The FBI has a good record in kidnapping cases."

"They've also failed. I could cite you a half dozen unsolved kidnappings, but why waste time on that? The best thing to do is maintain absolute secrecy among ourselves until we have definite news about Hugo, one way or the other."

Velma echoed faintly, "One way... or the other?"

"My dear," Sam Fergus said gently, "We must face it. I hope with all my heart that Hugo will be returned to you none the worse for this experience, terrible as it is. He's big, strong, intelligent man. Given half a chance, he'll fight for himself. But he's in the hands of criminals who are probably holding him helpless, and it's possible—I wish I could put this less bluntly, my dear, but—it's possible he'll be killed."

She stared in tearless shock. For the first time Allen Landall softened his attitude toward her.

"Mrs. Sandor, as the law stands they have nothing to lose. I mean the so-called Lindbergh law. It makes kidnapping a capital crime if the victim is transported across a state line. That probably hasn't happened this time, and it probably won't—the nearest state line is 300 miles north of here—but there's something else. The same law assumes that this has been done if the victim is not released in 24 hours. Why should they run the big risk of releasing a man who can talk and supply clues and in that way make himself dangerous to them?"

She answered with a slow, dazed nod and looked imploringly at Craig. "Then it really does not matter... so far as Hugo's safety... is... concerned?"

The thought was too painful; she let her words trail off.

Craig had listened intently to the argument—notice that Bud Sandor had taken no part in it. Bud had been sitting there as if he were stuffed with sawdust; but now he was stirring. He rose and said, half to himself, "I want to call Dede."

While the others were quiet, worriedly preoccupied with their dilemma, Bud went to the phone in the far corner of the living room. He hesitated over it, his forehead wrinkling with a mental effort, Craig knew, having seen it before, what Bud would do next. After trying for a few more moments, he would fail to recall the number of his own phone—then he would look for it in the little notebook he carried in his billfold. Bud did

West Seems Stronger Gridwise

NEW YORK (AP) - Is the balance of individual college football power swinging back to the West? Collegiate statistics released by the NCAA today show players from the West leading four of the five primary offensive categories.

Western players have captured the major college individual offense championship in eight of the last 11 years, but missed in 1963 when Miami's George Mira won it. The West seems determined to make up for the lapse.

Larry Zeno, UCLA's quarterback tops the total offense department after three weeks of play. Zeno has gained 646 yards on 108 plays, 33 more than Pitts' Fred Mazurek. Stanford half-back Ray Handley leads the rushers with 386 yards and the runner-up is another Western boy, Washington's Junior Coffey, who has chalked up 321.

Jack Schraub of California leads the pass catchers and Washington half-back Steve Brunwell is the top punt receiver just that; then he dialed and stood listening to the ringing signal.

Craig resumed. "There's something odd about that ransom note. On the whole it runs to pattern—the money to be old bills, all tens and twenties, unmarked, the serial numbers not listed—that sort of thing. But something that's usually included is missing. It doesn't threaten us with Hugo's death."

"Neither does it promise he'll be returned unharmed," Landall pointed out, "which wouldn't have meant anything any way. We've got to behave as if these crooks had rings in our noses. Maybe they'll shy away from murder, maybe there's a slim chance they'll let Hugo go. That's the best we can hope for. So we don't dare get cute. No tricks. If something went wrong—I don't want that on my conscience."

Although Craig already knew Velma's decision she had heard the situation grimly clarified since then. He asked for it again. "Velma have you changed your mind?"

"No. No. As Allen has said, for Hugo's sake we have no choice. But wait. I am thinking."

Broyles Not Satisfied With Porker's Work

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks had a poor practice Tuesday, Coach Frank Broyles said.

"I guess it's just learning what's with the pro passing attack and all," he said.

Arkansas' next Southwest Conference opponent, Baylor University, uses a pro-style offense with heavy emphasis on passing. The Porkers and Bears play in Little Rock Saturday night.

"I will say we are further along because Tulsa ran a lot of the same stuff," Broyles said. Arkansas turned back Tulsa's passing attack for a 31-22 victory.

Baylor leads the SWC in total offense with an average of 312 yards per game, all but 18 yards of it in the air. But the Bears are 0-2 after non-conference games. Arkansas is 3-0.

Broyles said Baylor blockers protect the passer well, and gave up losses only four times

Power, Speed Is Key to World Series

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It's New York power against St. Louis speed, crafty Whitey Ford against youthful Ray Sadecki, and World Series-hardened veterans against a relatively inexperienced crew as the Yankees and Cardinals open the autumn classic today.

The best-of-seven games will decide baseball's world championship.

The Yankees, 17-to-10 favorites to win their 21st post-season title in 29 attempts, were handicapped somewhat by the absence of regular shortstop Tony Kubek. He had missed the last two weeks of the season because of a jammed wrist.

Officially out for the entire series, Kubek has been replaced by Mike Hegan, rookie first baseman and son of Yankee bullpen coach Jim Hegan.

Phil Linz, the versatile infielder who plays the harmonica on the side, will play shortstop in Kubek's place and lead off. The Cardinals, too, are not 100 per cent physically fit.

Uncertainty over second baseman Julian Javier and third baseman Ken Boyer, injured in weekend games with the New York Mets, was eliminated Tuesday when both assured manager Johnny Keane they were ready to play.

Javier injured his left hip in a collision Saturday and did not play in the regular season finale. Boyer pulled a muscle in his left thigh rounding third in the sixth inning of the finale.

"You couldn't keep those fellows out of the Series," said Keane. "They played too hard to get into it."

A sellout crowd of 32,000 was assured with tickets in much demand. Speculators were getting as much as $100 for a pair of box seats.

The weatherman continued to be kind to the St. Louis populace. As it has been throughout the final week of the season, prevailed with temperatures of sunny and pleasant weather 65 to 70 for the Cards' first World Series since 1946.

Starting time was 1 p.m. EST, with all games carried on network NBC radio and television.

On the basis of experience, the Ford-Sadecki duel appeared to be a mismatch. This was the eighth opening game assignment in his 22nd Series start for the 35-year-old Ford who turned in a 17-6 record during the regular season.

On the other hand, it was World Series baptism for the 23-year-old Sadecki, the Cardinals' lone 20 game winner.

In fact, only three Cardinals — shortstop Dick Groat, outfielder Bob Skinner and pitcher Roger Craig — have had World Series experience.

There isn't a Yankee regular without Series experience except Mel Stottlemyre, the rookie right-hander. He is expected to oppose Bob Gibson, the Cards' fireballing ace, in the second game.

St. Louis southpaw Curt Simmons and New York right-hander Jim Bouton are likely starters in the third game Saturday at Yankee Stadium, following a day off due to travel.

Both teams engaged in a preliminary workout Tuesday at Busch Stadium where such Yankee sluggers as Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, Joe Pepitone and Elston Howard impressed Keane with their long drives over and against the short right-field porch.

"If there is an edge," said Keane, "I guess you have to give it to the Yankees because of their home-run power. They hit more homers than we do over a season's play, but in one game or in a short series, we can hit as many home runs as they."

"We've got three or four men who can hit the ball out of the series at 5-9.

Weather—Expected to be sunny for first game.

TV-radio—On National Broadcasting Co. network.

Past series records—Yankees won 20, lost 8; Cardinals won 6, lost 3.

Picks College Grid Winners for Saturday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — A word that sounds exactly like Ohio means good morning in Japanese. So Ohio to you too. And, to the Illinois football team as well in its meeting with Ohio State Saturday in a game that could decide the Big Ten title.

The whine of the jet dulled the senses to such an extent last weekend that there were only questionmark winners among the questionmark decisions for a questionmark percentage.

Here are this week's winners, obtained by stirring the tea with chopsticks.

Illinois over Ohio State: A close one but Dick Butkus, the staunch Illini center and line-backer, gets the nod over Buckeye Tom Barrington.

Oklahoma over Texas: If the Sooners blow this one, new coach Gomer Jones will be available for a Senate race.

Dartmouth over Princeton: In recent years this tussle, usually the finale of the season, has decided the Ivy League. The game still will be decisive with Dartmouth bottling up Cosmo Iacavazzi.

Kentucky over Florida State: The Seminoles boast their line is the strongest in the South, but that was before they met Messrs. Norton and Bird of Kentucky.

Notre Dame over Air Force: Once upon a time they spelled the name Johnny Lujack. Now it is spelled Johnny Huarte. Irish names, of course?

Army over Penn State: Coach Rip Engle of Penn State says the loss to Oregon included the "worst 15 minutes of my life."

The Cadets, guided by quarterback Stichweh add a few more minutes of travail.

Alabama over North Carolina State: The Crimson has found a way of winning without scoring a touchdown, so make the margin this time by three safeties to none.

Michigan State over Michigan: From 5,000 miles away, the difference is only fractional.

park. Lou Brock, our left fielder, can hit the ball as hard as anybody in baseball and that includes Mantle."

Keane was unperturbed about the odds favoring the Yankees. "The odds mean nothing to us," he said. "We have come through all the pressure of a pennant race and it was helpful in preparing the players for the series. We'll take it one game at a time."

Yogi Berra, St. Louis-born manager of the Yankees, like Keane, expected a "tough" Series.

"They've got a good hitting club," he said. "And they've got good speed. You can't take them lightly."

The Yankees presented the same line-up Berra employed to clinch the American League pennant. Mantle was in right field with Maris in center and the switch-hitting Tommy Tresh in left.

The Cards outlasted the Yankees .272 to .253 during regular season play but the Yankees had more home runs, 162 to 108. Individually, the Cards' Brock led all hitters with a .315 batting average. Boyer was tops in runs batted in with 119 and Curt Flood had the most hits, 211.

Mantle, as expected, was the leader in home runs with 35.

Brundage Is Renamed by Sports Group

TOKYO (AP) — Re-election of Avery Brundage as president of the International Olympic Committee gives the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States a powerful ally in its power struggle with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Brundage, the stern, 74-year-old Chicago hotelman who holds strict views on amateurism, won out in a secret ballot over Lord David Brughley, Marquess of Exeter, who takes a somewhat more liberal view of the amateur code.

The vote was announced Wednesday as unanimous but this was on a motion by Pakistan after the sealed ballots had been counted. It probably was fairly close in the 70-man committee.

Meanwhile, feverish preparations went forward in a light drizzle for the opening of the Olympic Games Saturday when 8,000 athletes from 88 nations will vie for honors before capacity audiences. Virtually everything is ready, and the excitement in Tokyo is almost incomprehensible to a Westerner.

The struggle in the Olympic committee for the presidency—first won by Brundage at Helsinki in 1952, also in a contest with England's Lord Burghley—may have a profound impact on American amateur sports.

The American team fielded here was put together under a truce between the AAU and the NCAA imposed by the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur. As soon as the games end and possibly even before, the two big sports groups may lock horns.

One possible arena is the meetings next week of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which controls track and field. The IAAF recognizes only the AAU, and the AAU may take this opportunity to present its side of the case to the International Federation.

Although the AAU-NCAA dispute may never come before the IOC, if it does Brundage is almost certain to throw his weight on the side of the AAU. He has always been scornful of college athletic scholarships.

If the AAU-NCAA wrangle goes so far as to cause the IAAF to withdraw recognition from college athletes, most American track and field men would be banned from international competition, including the Olympics.

The NCAA, of course, hopes to achieve recognition from the IAAF or at least a further sharing of responsibilities with the AAU.

Loser Gets Lineman of Week Nod

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nebraska beat Iowa State 14-7 last week and the Cornhuskers probably consider themselves fortunate they don't have to meet John Van Sicken again.

Van Sicken plays tackle for Iowa State and his ferocious play against Nebraska earned him the nod today as the Lineman of the Week in The Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

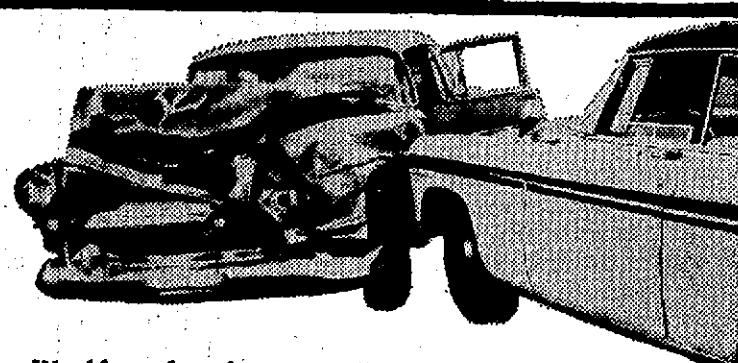

Van Sicken, a 216-pound senior from Walled Lake, Mich., made 11 unassisted tackles and helped on six others. He was such a nuisance in the Nebraska backfield that Cornhusker coach Bob Devaney said afterwards "Van Sicken forced us to aim most of our plays outside to keep away from him."

High praise indeed from an opposing coach for a usually unsung hero of the line. His own coach, Clay Stapleton, praised him, too.

"I wouldn't swap Van Sicken for any tackle in the Big Eight, including 250-pound Ralph Neely of Oklahoma," Stapleton said.
